Unsworth Vineyards Allegro 2019

Cowichan Valley, Vancouver Island, British Columbia, Canada

Like last year, the 2019 Allegro is a hybrid blend of sauvignette, petit milo, and amiel, from vineyards in the Cowichan Valley, Westshore, and Saanich Peninsula. This was fermented and aged in stainless on lees. This is a lean and sharp white with tight, piercing lemon, green apple, underripe melon, and subtle white blossoms, with a screeching acidity that leaves even this acid freak gasping. There's a little lactic lees action padding this out, finishing a bit sour and short. Coastal brisk, to be sure.
