

David Lawrason

This is a lighter, spry and dry pinot from Vancouver Island, with fairly lifted and bright aromas of redcurrant/cherry, florals, and hints of vanilla and cinnamon from the barrels. It is light to medium bodied with crisp but not austere acidity and fine grippy tannin. The length and focus are excellent. Tasted October 2020

Value Rating: ★★☆☆☆

